POOR.

Over all these grand and spacious halls From dome above to marble sill, The sabbleness of silence falls, And all is still.

No baby fingers beat tattoo Upon the polished window panes, No greeting the wayfarer below— Here silence reigns.

No madcap group comes rushing through, The doorway with a shout of joy, No leaning then fond and true, No roguish boy.

Alone they sit at close of day, A pair—ah! gold is theirs no more, They know no touch of poverty— But they are poor.

—Horace Seymour Keller in the New York Sun.

KEEPING TAB ON THE WORLD

Morton Swings His Ax In the Equitable Jungle Just as His Santa Fe Record Is Defended by the President. Prosecution of Equitable Looters to Follow Hendricks' Scathing Report. Bowen Dismissed and Censured—France Calls Kaiser's Hand—Sweden Willing to Negotiate.

POLITICAL

Why Harmon and Judson Quit.

The administration took the public into its confidence regarding the much disputed Santa Fe rebate case when, June 21, it gave to the press the entire correspondence between Attorney General Moody and Special Counsel Harmon and Judson in connection with the resignations of these attorneys. The attorney general disagreed with their advice to bring criminal prosecution against the officers of the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, including Paul Morton. Mr. Moody was in favor of prosecuting the company, but not the men, because, he said, not enough evidence had been brought to show that Mr. Morton or the other officers of the railroad were cognizant of the rebates complained of.

Writing from Cincinnati, Messrs. Harmon and Judson reiterated their opinion that the officers were guilty prima facie. They argued that since corporations could not be imprisoned and as evils are corporate in name, but individual in fact, the laws would not be obeyed until the government searched out the guilty men and made "corporate wrongdoing mean personal punishment and dishonor."

The correspondence included also a letter from President Roosevelt to Attorney General Moody, in which he incloses one from Secretary Morton denying he had any knowledge of the unlawful practices complained of and stating that he had in fact expressly forbidden such practices. The president is unwilling to have Mr. Morton singled out because of his connection with the cabinet. Mr. Morton's explanation of the Santa Fe rebates was that they existed for a time after contrary instructions had been given, just as a misplaced switch sometimes occurs without the knowledge or responsibility of the superior officials of the railroad. The president takes the ground that the only way to secure enforcement of the law would be to make it effective against all railroads alike, and that so long as it was a dead letter, railroads might be compelled to disregard the law in self defense.

The president refers to Mr. Morton's new connection with the Equitable, and expresses confidence in his ability to make a new clean management. The president finds in the Equitable scandal new reason for effective supervision of all great insurance corporations by the federal government.

Bowen's Parting Shot.

Former Minister Herbert W. Bowen gave to the papers an extended reply to the censure contained in his dismissal from the diplomatic service. Mr. Bowen says that at one time a promotion was offered as a bribe to silence him. He intimates that the alleged misconduct of Mr. Loomis while minister to Venezuela has been covered up and ignored by the state department. Documentary evidence is given to the public indicating Loomis' connections with the Mercado claim and his participation in certain contracts. Mr. Bowen complains that in the investigation Secretary Taft acted both as trial judge and as counsel for Loomis, and that he was compelled to cross examine witnesses himself. Bowen may appeal to congress.

Troops to Execute the Law.

Governor Folk of Missouri went to St. Louis last week to investigate the violations of the antipool selling and Sunday closing laws and plainly indicated his intention of sending the state militia to compel obedience. He said he proposed to go the limit of his authority if necessary to suppress such conditions. The sheriff of St. Louis previously had been ordered to stop all betting at the race track.

Hooker, Impeachment Case.

The New York legislature, which was summoned in extraordinary session June 21 to consider the case of Warren B. Hooker, supreme court justice, accused of misconduct, authorized the judiciary committee to determine whether the legislature had jurisdiction to remove Hooker. Justice Hooker was called to appear before the legislature June 27 to show cause why he should not be removed.

Old Paper Turns Socialist.

The Appeal to Reason and other Socialist papers in the west are making much of the flop of the Portland Oregonian, an old and established Republican daily, to the Socialist cause. In its editorial announcement the Oregonian declared its belief that the country is booked for Socialism because of the greed of speculators in capitalizing the wants of the public.

City Bosses as Reformers.

The expected turn in Philadelphia's tide of reformation came last week when the city campaign committee of the broken Republican machine adopted resolutions declaring for personal registration, and prepared for the withdrawal of its candidates in order to accept the suggestions of certain Union League party men, who aim to effect reform within the party lines. Then came the magistrate's decision to hold ex-Chief Engineer Hill for trial on charges of forgery and falsification of records of the filtration bureau in the interest of the Durham-McNichol contract combine. Evidence against Hill was given showing that he personally directed a subordinate to falsely increase the estimate of work done by the contractor.

Mayor Weaver took the important step of authorizing the Audit company of New York to make a rigid examination into the records and contracts of the filtration work. When the accountants have got the facts together, Engineer W. Barclay Parsons of New York is to make a minute examination of the work done. This is something entirely new in the municipal government.

LEGAL-CRIMINAL

Mrs. Rogers' Execution Stayed.

By the action of Judge Wheeler of the circuit court at Brattleboro, Vt., in granting an application of a writ of appeal to the federal supreme court the execution of Mrs. Mary Rogers, condemned for the murder of her husband, was stayed. Judge Wheeler had previously denied the application of Mrs. Rogers' counsel for a writ of habeas corpus. Mrs. Rogers was remanded to the custody of the state authorities.

To Sue Equitable Looters.

Attorney General Mayer of New York announced that steps would be taken speedily to accomplish the return of any profits wrongfully taken from the Equitable, to debar from holding office in that company any person faithless to his trust and to obtain an accounting for any waste of funds for any reason by anybody.

A Fortune From Forgery.

It became known on June 20 that something over $1,000,000 had been obtained from banks and trust companies by the late Benjamin H. Gaskill, a well known Philadelphia banker and broker, by means of raised stock certificates. Up to the time of his death a few weeks ago Mr. Gaskill's credit was never questioned. By means of chemicals he raised various stock certificates a hundredfold or more, the figures being changed so skillfully as to defy detection. The raised certificates were then used as collateral for large loans from some of the most conservative banking houses in the city, including the Franklin Exchange National, the Corn Exchange National and the City Trust company. Thus he had been securing large sums of money for years.

Death Sentence Ten Times.

Samuel Greason, the colored man who was accused of aiding Mrs. Kate Edwards in the murder of her husband four years ago and who has heard his death sentence read ten times, was finally set free. Mrs. Edwards having confessed that she lied in testifying that Greason was her accomplice.

FOREIGN

Norway Firm; Sweden Yielding.

The Norwegian storting adopted, June 19, an address to King Oscar, the riksdag and the Swedish people which was firm, though conciliatory. It said that what had happened could not be altered and that it was not possible to consider the various constitutional questions raised by King Oscar. The idea of humiliating Sweden was disclaimed, and it was asserted that no bitter feeling or animosity was felt toward the king or the Swedish people. The storting suggested that the Swedish government enter upon negotiations for a final settlement as to the dissolution of the union and the recognition of Norway as a sovereign state. A declaration adopted by the Swedish council of state asked the authority of the riksdag to enter into negotiations with Norway in order to establish a basis of a dissolution on which both countries could mutually agree. The extra session of the riksdag began June 21.

Czar Again Talks Reform.

Czar Nicholas of Russia has received a deputation from the congress of zemstvos, headed by Count Heyden, president of the congress. The czar in reply to the list of complaints said he was still grieved at the calamities of war and that his will favored the admission of elected representatives to works of state. The fact that the committee was received, whereas the zemstvos congress itself had not been sanctioned, indicated a change.

Japs Must Fight On.

The Japanese minister of war in a formal letter has notified the army in the field of the peace proposals, but explains that nothing is assured, and instructs all to be prepared for a long continued war. Oyama continued to press northward against the positions held by Linerich along the Kirin road in northern Manchuria, the expected general engagement being deferred. Neither country gave much heed to the suggestion of President Roosevelt for an armistice.

Pushing Chinese Boycott.

During the week 600 Chinese students, representing twenty-six colleges, have met at Tientsin and passed resolutions to boycott American goods and stimulate Chinese manufactures. Also 200 members from the commercial guilds of seventeen provinces have signed an agreement under bond to forfeit 50,000 taels if any member is reported purchasing American goods. Ten thousand copies of this agreement are being circulated.

France Agrees to Negotiate.

After a week bordering on war panic the French government gave notice that it was willing to meet the demands of Emperor William for a conference on the Moroccan policy. France agreed that the existing conditions in Morocco should be maintained, the sultan's sovereignty being unimpaired. This concession on the part of France was believed to have been the only alternative except war with Germany. Premier Rouvier next requested Germany to explain her footing and intentions, thus calling the kaiser's hand. It was still uncertain whether Great Britain would follow the lead of France by joining in a conference. The British press very generally was opposed to yielding a single point to Germany.

Indian Army on War Footing.

A British blue book out June 22 tells of the success of General Kitchener, the commander in chief in India, in bringing about the reorganization of the army there with a view to expected encroachments from Russia on the north; also it is announced that a royal commission has been appointed to investigate the South African scandals with powers equal to a high court of justice. This will increase the army from 80,000 to 140,000.

Balfour Wants American Aid.

An utterance of great international significance was made by Mr. Balfour, the British premier, at the welcoming banquet for the new American minister, Mr. Reid. Mr. Balfour made the solemn declaration that America's duty to civilization and the cause of peace must soon impel her to abandon her traditional policy of isolation and accept her rightful responsibilities in the family of nations. His words constituted almost an invitation for America to enter into a compact or alliance for safeguarding the world's peace.

EXECUTIVE

Lessons of Sham War Games.

The joint army and navy war games which ended at Fort Monroe June 17 were conducted with such secrecy that very little was understood by the public about their methods and results. No official statements are to be made about the exercises until the war and navy colleges have time to work out the problems. One of the practical results was the demonstration of the great efficiency of the shore searchlights. It also seemed conclusive that Fort Monroe could not properly protect the entrance to Chesapeake bay, as the searchlights could not pick up vessels coming in between the capes, nor could the heaviest batteries reach them. This may result in a renewal of the agitation for a fort at Cape Henry. The mine system appeared to be effective in defending the cities of Washington and Baltimore.

Bowen Out; Loomis Criticized.

The peremptory dismissal of Herbert W. Bowen as United States minister to Venezuela and from the diplomatic service was ordered June 20 by President Roosevelt as a result of having brought "false and malicious charges against Assistant Secretary of State Francis B. Loomis, who preceded him at Caracas." As to Bowen's denial that he had presented formal charges against Loomis the president says that it was merely a matter of terms, as numerous communications from Bowen to the state department had in fact included statements injurious to the character of his superior, Loomis.

The president charges Bowen with having shown complete disloyalty to the service to which he belonged and to the country which he represented. Mr. Bowen had told the president, and Secretary Taft that his resignation would be an admission of misconduct, and the president then directed that he be dismissed from the service. Secretary Taft's report on the evidence shows that the only transaction Mr. Loomis ever had with the Asphalt trust was a transfer of funds from Caracas to New York in which Mr. Loomis was indiscreet in becoming personally interested in the Mercado claim. Elsewhere Mr. Taft says that Loomis was "treading on dangerous ground in bringing his official life so close to a transaction in which he must be expected to have a great personal interest." Nevertheless he is convinced that Loomis has been cruelly slandered in the charges against his integrity and sincerity.

Herbert W. Bowen.

VAUDEVILLE STARS AT THE COUNTRY CLUB.

The vaudeville entertainment at the Merrimack Valley Country club Wednesday evening was a most original affair. The impersonators adapted themselves to the occasion with a delightful out-of-doors breeziness and buoyancy.

The broad veranda of the club house was transformed into a stage with footlights and curtains complete, with bunting, foliage, and Japanese lanterns so prettily massed that without them half the charm of the performance would have been lost.

The avian chorus by the "Village Chatsaults," was the opening number and was also decidedly a hit of the evening. This originated with Edward M. Carney, who was assisted in presenting it by John C. Sanborn, J., and Norman Lyon as blacksmiths, Alfred Tongue as colored hostler, with Eben Grimes' pony, and Reuben Haskell. The stage setting included a complete blacksmith shop outfit, forge, anvil wheels and general features. A clever topical song and "I'm a jolly old Farmer," were especially well sung by E. M. Carney and enthusiastically received by the audience. "Kentucky Babe" was sung by the quartet with Alfred Tongue as soloist, followed by a good topical song by Norman Lyon, and "Jolly Blacksmiths," by the quartet.

The "Conversation Wedding" by Nat Webster was thoroughly appreciated by the audience as an amusing monologue. Mrs. Louise Sullivan gave an exceedingly graceful and delicate dance that was applauded enthusiastically. The Bellamy Lancers were the most laudable part of the program. The dancers were Misses Sweeney, Small and McCarthy and Messrs Flanders, Sweeney Hale and Murcy.

Miss Elizabeth McMahon's soprano solos, "Sing me to Sleep," "Ashore" gave full play for a rarely sweet voice. A buck and wing dance by Henry Schonland followed that would have been creditable on any boards. "Shame on You," by Mr. Carney, a professional was sung in a very clever manner.

Watkin Roberts gave a mandolin solo and Miss Augusta Cheney a whistling solo. "Meadow Lark" was one of the most musical numbers.

The grand cake walk was the last number with M. W. Morris as judge. Those who walked were R. H. Sugart and Albert Schaeke, Louis S. Cox and Harry Stanley. Eben Grimes and Thomas L. Sullivan, Norman Lyon and Edward M. Carney, Harry B. Musk, Albert E. Royle, Eben Grimes and Thomas L. Sullivan won the cake which was a "fake" cake, designed like a big wedding cake, but opening on top, and released a big white chicken.

This concluded the vaudeville which had been interspersed by an address on "American History," by Louis S. Cox, which needed to be heard to full appreciation; a brief address by A. E. Mack, and explanatory prefaces by Joseph Brown.

The committee who made and carried out the arrangements for the very successful evening in only a week's time, was composed of the following ladies: Mrs. H. B. Musk, chairman, Mrs. W. Morris, Mrs. William Twiss, Mrs. Charles A. DeCoursey, Miss Agnes Stewart, Mrs. Louis S. Cox, Mrs. William Higgins of North Andover.

The American History address touched lightly on some of the club members and was quaintly humorous and decidedly original.

Ice cream and other refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed in the club house and about the piazza after the entertainment. The attendance was large and included members and their friends from Lawrence, Haverhill, Methuen, Andover and North Andover.

FAVORITE CHICKEN DISH.

To cook chicken à la Creole select a tender young chicken, cut it into the usual finger-size pieces, roll it in flour that has been seasoned with salt and pepper and fry it in fat until it is brown and tender. Keep the chicken hot while the sauce is making. For the sauce, fry a minced slice of onion in two tablespoons of butter and stir in a tablespoonful of flour. When all are nicely browned add one of the Spanish red peppers which come in cans (they are known as pimientos), two cupfuls of tomatoes, a bit of bay leaf and a piece of thyme. Stir until the sauce thickens. Then add the chicken and simmer very slowly for a few minutes.

LAKE WINNEPESAUKEE

The Queen of New Hampshire's Lakes. Numerous islands for cottagers and Campers.

Lake Winnepesaukee, one of the most beautiful lakes in the country is situated at an elevation of 472 feet above sea level. Its ideal location between the Pemigewasset and the Merrimack valleys at the foothills of the White Mountains has made it a very desirable summering section. Weirs, Alton Bay, Wolfeboro, Centre Harbor and other choice spots are delightful summer havens. A large and palatial steamer, The Mount Washington, sails over the lake covering a course of sixty miles and stopping at the principal ports. The surface of the lake is dotted with innumerable islands, which serve as charming summer grounds for cottagers and campers. The scenic surroundings of Lake Winnepesaukee are beautiful beyond description. In the distance the high peak of Mount Washington can be observed, while nearer, the summits of Belknap and Passaconaway are visible.

No better region in New Hampshire can be selected for a summer vacation. Send six cents in stamps to the General Passenger Department, Boston & Maine Railroad, Boston, for the beautiful colored map of Lake Winnepesaukee, showing the numerous islands, glens and coves. A two-cent stamp will bring you a delightful illustrated and interesting descriptive booklet, entitled "Lakes and Streams of New England" which gives a detailed description of New Hampshire's chosen lake.

The 4th Celebration.

Whatever the verdict may be after the day is over, those who are doing the active work of preparation for next Tuesday's celebration cannot be denied very hearty praise for their interest and success in the preliminary work. The published program shows in a measure how effective that work has been. A full list of attractions means a generous response by the public to the appeal for funds, and it further means that the committees have put in a lot of work in planning.

With many generous donors and an enthusiastic committee, there is nothing else needed to make the day a big success, but an interested public. This does not mean simply a large gathering to enjoy the various events, but it means a large gathering who have borne a share of the cost of having the events. Not to a great extent, even a single souvenir at a quarter will mark a man or a family as a sharer in the cost as well as the pleasure. The sale has been good but hundreds more of the souvenirs should be worn than those now sold.

The best part of the affair should be the universal interest of the people of the town in it, and we trust the writer may be pardoned if he suggests a still further interest in some of the surroundings to the day itself. The whole day is to centre around the playstead. The bonfire, the games, the concert, the fireworks; all are to be enjoyed by the crowds who will gather in the town's new central playground. Hundreds will go there who had no idea that such a place existed in the town, and many others will see the improvements that have been made there, and rejoice in the possibilities of still greater results. The new club house, the base ball diamond, the beginning of the grading, have all cost money, and today represent voluntary gifts by citizens of more than a thousand dollars. There has been no noise made in getting the start, but a real progress will be seen toward the end of giving the boys of the town a first class playground.

There will go to these grounds next Tuesday many who will be able, if the spirit should so move, to aid in this worth-while-work. The park commissioners welcome the citizens to their hobby and bespeak their aroused interest in it. Many scores of boys are already getting benefit from the crude equipment already at hand; every dollar donated will add opportunities for many more of the town's youth to enjoy healthful sports under superior conditions. May there be a glorious celebration next Tuesday, and a more glorious aftermath in increased interest in the town's park and playstead.

Editorial Cinders.

Read the automobile notice carefully and if you have any kick, make it at headquarters. For ourselves we congratulate the Selectmen upon their action in approving the state law for all roads save South Main street, and for fixing a moderate speed upon that. Of course 20 miles an hour upon So. Main street would please everybody, but neither would two miles for there are those who believe motor vehicles have no place at all upon the highway. But there is getting to be about as much need for conservative action in passing judgment upon automobilists as there is for conservative action in running the machine itself. It is a pretty good time for all of us to go slow in "slamming the other fellow."

How hard the path is, that often leads to real joy! There has occurred in town during the past week several things that have so brightened the world for several of our citizens that it is really very hard to yield to the necessities of the case and refrain from publishing the stories of them. The loss to one of our good citizens of a home and all his possessions, brings to him an experience and a new appreciation of friends known and unknown that arouses a new faith of man in man, and gives a new appreciation of the word "friend." It's a mighty good world after all when kind deeds and warm hearts light up its surface.

We congratulate the 4th of July committee upon their good sense in cutting out the day break bells. They could only serve to arouse thousands who would like to sleep, and make them irritable and out of sorts all day. The boys who want to get up early won't need any bells to awaken them and the committee does wisely in spending no money nor energy for foolish bell ringing. In behalf of many of our best citizens we thank them.

We venture to suggest that it is within the realm of possibility for "graduation" at Punched to become "too much." With a "class day" and junior reception on Wednesday, "graduation and a play" on Thursday, and "promotion and a senior reception" on Friday it looks as if there was a desire to imitate to an excess the town's big schools.

A TERRIFIC STORM

Much Damage Done by Lightning and
Rain Monday Afternoon—Fireman
Kept Busy.

This town had a large share of the storm on Monday afternoon. Considerable damage was done all through the eastern part of the New England States and Andover was not neglected by the fury of the storm. About half past one, dark clouds came up from the west and in a short time the rain began to fall. A few minutes later it was coming down in torrents. Great sheets were carried by the wind and it seemed as though many windows would be broken. This was accompanied by hail, some pieces being as large as marbles.

Thunder in deafening crashes added to the intensity of the storm and there were the usual lightning flashes, making a beautiful electrical display.

In the outlying districts trees were uprooted and branches blown off and there were a few places where the water dug trenches in the road but there were no serious washouts.

The worst damage done by the storm was the burning of the house and barn owned and occupied by Charles Jameson in West Parish. Two other fires gave the firemen considerable work for a while but neither of these was serious although the one at the residence of Harry H. Noyes on High street might have been but for the quick work of the firemen who checked it in time.

At the real estate office of Barnett Rogers in the Musgrove building a gas pipe broke and for some minutes a blazing torch of gas came forth, but on turning off the gas in the street the flame was extinguished. The damage here was slight.

There was considerable excitement in the square during the progress of the fires as the alarms were pulled in by the old fashioned way of pulling the bell. It was at first thought that the lightning was causing the alarm to ring but on investigation by the firemen, it was found that the bell was being pulled for the fire in Mr. Rogers' office. A quick run was made to the scene but their services were not required as the flame had been extinguished by employees of the gas office and spectators.

While at this fire Captain Walter Morse was informed of the fire at Mr. Noyes' house and the department was at once ordered there. It was found that a broken gas pipe had caused the trouble here and that a bad fire was raging between the walls in a chamber on the second floor. The wall was torn open and chemicals were applied, extinguishing the fire before it had gained headway. A stream was played on it for a few minutes as a precaution. The damage will not exceed a few hundred dollars.

It was while fighting this fire that it was learned that Charles Jameson's barn was on fire and Captain Morse immediately ordered the Ballardvale department to this fire. Before they could arrive the fire had gained great headway in the barn and as there was a limited supply of water, all hope of saving the structure was abandoned. The local men responded as soon as possible and did what they could to save property.

It was necessary to go more than half a mile to the nearest hydrant and then it was only possible to get a small stream as the engine could not drive the water through such a length of hose. All this time the fire was burning toward the house and valuable time was being lost. Willing hands removed all the furniture, carrying it across the road into Mr. Jameson's field.

When the barn had been completely consumed the wind suddenly shifted from the west to the east, driving the flames directly toward the house. The firemen did everything in their power to save the house but were compelled to give up the task owing to the lack of water.

In a very short time there was nothing left to show where an hour before there stood a comfortable house and barn.

The loss is estimated at about $4500 with an insurance of $3200.

All of Mr. Jameson's animals were removed but he lost all his wagons, except the one in which he had just returned to the barn. His farming implements were also destroyed. A neighbor who saw the flash of lightning which struck the barn said that it descended in two great balls, joining as they neared the earth. These struck near the front door of the barn and instantly the flames leaped into the air.

This is the third time that Mr. Jameson has suffered by fire; the first being while he was on the farm with his father, David Jameson, about a quarter of a mile from the present scene. Nine years ago last March Mr. Jameson lost his barn and house and considerable furniture.

Celebrates Golden Wedding.

On last Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McEnroe of Wilmington celebrated their golden wedding, surrounded by about 80 relatives and friends. There was a grand home-coming. The grandchildren sang and recited. Master Charles Little of Brockton rendered violin solos, refreshments were served, and Mr. and Mrs. McEnroe were presented with a purse of gold.

Mr. McEnroe was born in County Cavin, Ire., in 1834. He came to this country in 1852, settling in Andover. They were married here June 24, 1855, by Rev. Fr. James O'Donnell of St. Augustine's church. They lived first at Ballardvale, where the husband worked in the woolen mill, then in Wakefield where he was employed as a shoemaker. They moved to the railroad as a section hand. Five years ago he was made crossing tender at the Lawrence crossing there.

They are both hale and hearty, and have won the respect of their fellow-citizens.

At the regular meeting of Andover council Number 65, Royal Arcanum, held last Friday evening, the matter of dues which has been uppermost in the minds of Arcanumites for the past few weeks, was thoroughly discussed. The members talked freely and in an informal way of the evils and danger of a raise such as the Supreme council has defined, most of the members being against it. It was voted to send a protest to the Grand council, and also to send a committee of three to the meeting which is to be held in Everett in July. The committee chosen are John N. Cole, John W. Bell and E. Kendall Jenkins.

MEET ME IN THE RECEPTION PARLOR

Has Reached the Fourscore and Ten Milestone.

The ninetieth birthday of Samuel G. Bailey, a life long resident of Andover, was pleasantly celebrated at his home on Porter street, Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Bailey was born in the Bailey district, West Parish, June 28, 1815. For many years he lived in the Abbott District, but more recently has made his home in the same house with his only son, Selectman Samuel H. Bailey.

During the afternoon a number of old friends and neighbors called to pay their respects to Mr. Bailey who received them by the side of a comfortable open fire in his son's parlor.

At six a family party of twenty-three sat down in his own rooms to a supper so excellent as to explain in part how he had been both willing and able to live to the age of ninety. There were present Mr. Bailey's four children, Mr. S. H. Bailey of Andover, Mrs. Frank Fitzgerald, Mrs. Geo. Fitzgerald of Tewksbury, and Miss Lucetta A. Bailey who has cared for her father since his wife's death; four grand children and one great grandchild, little Alice Elizabeth Trull of North Tewksbury. Among others present were Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Pierce of North Tewksbury and Rev. and Mrs. A. T. Belknap of Andover.

Though somewhat infirm Mr. Bailey has good health for one of his years and his many friends are glad he has so long enjoyed "The Fast of Life" for which the first was made.

Children's Night Observed.

On Tuesday evening, Children's night was observed at the Grange. A fine program, consisting of songs, recitations and a short play made the evening pass off very pleasantly and all were pleased with the success of the affair.

The play entitled "Tom and Jerry or the Rival Waiters," caused a great deal of laughter as it was indeed very funny. At the close of the entertainment ice cream and cake and strawberries and cream were served. The program was as follows:

Music, Miss Hardy, Mr. Newton Reading, "The Deacon's Bull."
Music, Miss Carolyn J. Burr
Song, Miss Carolyn J. Burr
Music, Miss Hardy, Mr. Newton Play, "Tom and Jerry."

A HOT fire, but—A cool kitchen!

Is there no heat with a gas stove?

Of course there's heat—the very best and most effective kind.

It's heat that heats the food, and not the whole house.

It is not fickle heat. You can depend on it absolutely. You can have several degrees of heat (for several kinds of cooking) at the same time.

Each flame is as steady as clockwork.

You can time your cooking in advance if you have a gas stove.

And the instant your cooking is done you can put the fire entirely out.

Andover Harvard Man at Re-

Union of Class of '46.

William L. Ropes, librarian at the Andover Theological seminary, attended the reunion of the class of 1846, Harvard, Tuesday evening. Regarding the reunion the Boston Globe says:

"Four very gray yet very loyal sons of Harvard dined together at Young's hotel Tuesday evening, representing the oldest class included among the reunions of this commencement—1846. They were Abner Little Merrill, Joseph B. F. Oskood, William Ladd Ropes and Thomas R. Rodman.

"There can never be anything formal about a class reunion and yet the four members would not be expected to do anything but talk over old times. This was done and a jolly evening was made of it.

"There are living 11 members of this class. Last evening the memory of departed members were not forgotten and particular reference was made to the three who had died during the past year, George Frisbie Hoar, Charles Eliot Guild and Edwin Moses Bigelow.

E. Frank Lewis, 4; Andover A. A., 2.

The Andover Athletic Association baseball team were defeated in an exciting and interesting game on the Playstead last Saturday afternoon by a score of 4 to 2. The home team started off well by making a run in the first inning but McGrady steeled down and no runs were scored off him until the ninth.

Hilton had the visitors at his mercy until the eighth inning when with one out and one man on second Lawson dropped an easy fly. But for this the visitors would not have scored.

"Kell" Moynihan took Hilton's place in the box and they were unable to do anything with his delivery.

Honor to Whom Honor is Due!

Amid the great flood of college honors filling the papers this week—cum laude, magna cum laude, and summa cum laude—three announcements will especially interest Andover readers. Yale University conferred the degree of honorary Master of Arts on Principal Alfred E. Stearns, principal of Phillips Academy, although not a graduate of Yale. (We should think the Andover boys at New Haven would have given their loudest yell on the spot—P. A. P. J.) Harvard University gave the degree of Doctor of Philosophy to Arthur Stanley Pease, and Amherst college gave that of Master of Arts to Hamilton Griswold Merrill.

Children Enjoy Outing.

About 40 children who were in the cantata given by Indian Ridge Rebekah lodge enjoyed a hay-ride to Shawshoe grove on Wednesday afternoon. The party left the square at half past one singing and cheering and arrived safely at the grove about two o'clock.

Games were enjoyed and then boating and swings occupied their time. A light lunch was served early in the evening and the happy children returned home, arriving about half past seven. Garfield Abbott furnished the conveyance.

NEW FIREWORKS LAW.

More Restrictions Have Been Put on the Sale of Explosives and Inflammable Fluids.

The Selectmen have received from the chief of the state police a copy of the law relating to the sale of fireworks, which is as follows:

(Chap. 280, Acts of 1905.)

An Act to authorize the detective and fire inspection department of the district police to make regulations relative to explosives and inflammable fluids.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

Section 1. Chapter three hundred and seventy of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and four is hereby amended by striking out the first three sections and inserting in place thereof the following:—Section 1. The powers and duties heretofore conferred and imposed upon cities and towns and the mayors and aldermen city councils and selectmen thereof by chapter one hundred and two of the Revised Laws, to regulate the keeping, storage, use, manufacture, sale handling transportation or other disposition of gunpowder dynamite, crude petroleum or any of its products, or explosive or inflammable fluids or compounds, tablets, torpedoes, or any explosives of like nature or any other explosives, except fireworks and fire crackers, are hereby conferred and imposed upon the detective and fire inspection department of the district police, except as to the transportation of said explosives by steam roads. Section 2. The detective and fire inspection department of the district police may make regulations, except as hereinbefore provided, for the keeping, storage, use, manufacture, sale, handling, transportation, or other disposition of gunpowder, dynamite, crude petroleum, or any of its products, of explosive or inflammable fluids or compounds, tablets, torpedoes, or any explosives of a like nature, or any other explosives, except fireworks and fire crackers, and may prescribe the materials and construction of buildings to be used for any of said purposes. Section 3. No building shall be erected or used in any city or town for the keeping, storage, manufacture, or sale of any of the articles named in section two unless the mayor and aldermen or selectmen have granted a license therefor after a public hearing fourteen days' public notice of which shall be given at the expense of the applicant, and unless a permit shall be granted therefor by the chief of the district police, or by some official or officials designated by the said chief for that purpose; provided, however, that any building lawfully used for any of said purposes at the time of the passage of this act may be continued in such use without a license or permit, but subject, however, to such alterations in construction and such regulations of such use for protection against fire or explosion, or for the use of the district police, as the detective and fire inspection department of the district police may from time to time prescribe.

Section 2. Said chapter is hereby further amended by inserting the following new section after section three:—Section 4. The chief of the district police may designate some official or officials of any city or town who shall, when so designated, have the power to grant, in accordance with rules and regulations from time to time established by said detective and fire inspection department of the district police, the permits provided for in the preceding section, and it shall be the duty of such official or officials to grant such permits and to keep a record of the same.

Section 3. Said chapter is hereby further amended by striking out section four and inserting in place thereof the following:—Section 5. Whoever keeps, stores, uses, manufactures, sells, handles, transports, or otherwise disposes of any of the articles mentioned in section two, in violation of this act or of the regulations made hereunder, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than one month, or by both such fine and imprisonment. (Approved April 11, 1905.)

By virtue of the foregoing act the following rule relative to the sale of firecrackers that was promulgated by the Fire Marshal's department, June 29, 1904, is repealed:—

No person shall sell or keep for sale any fire crackers of a greater length than six inches.

The following rules made by the said department and promulgated on the same date are still in effect:—

A car on the Andover and Reading line of the Boston & Northern street railway ran off the track at the switch on the Hidden road turnout Sunday evening about 6 o'clock and delayed traffic for an hour or more before it was replaced. The car was not damaged and no one was injured and the only inconvenience to the traveling public was the necessity of changing cars at that point for a few trips. The wrecking crew from Lawrence replaced the derailed car on the tracks.

SPEED FOR MOTOR VEHICLES

In the Town of Andover, Mass.

The Board of Selectmen of the Town of Andover have made the following regulations, regarding speed of motor vehicles:

ON MAIN STREET FROM GARDNER AVENUE TO THE NORTH READING LINE—20 MILES PER HOUR.

This regulation is made according to the provisions of Chapter 390, Acts of 1905 entitled

AN ACT RELATIVE TO THE SPEED AT WHICH AUTOMOBILES AND MOTOR CYCLES MAY BE OPERATED ON PUBLIC WAYS

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

Section 1. The city council of a city or the board of aldermen of a city having no common council, and the selectmen of a town, may make special regulations as to the speed of automobiles and motor cycles and as to the use of such vehicles on particular roads or ways, including their complete exclusion therefrom. If they determine that on any particular way a speed greater than the speeds specified in section eight of chapter four hundred and seventy-three of the acts of nineteen hundred and three may be permitted with safety, they may make such special regulations as may appear to them to be necessary, provided, however, that no special regulation increasing or lessening the speed at which automobiles or motor cycles may be run on the public highways, or excluding them therefrom, shall be effective unless such regulation shall have been published in one or more newspapers, if there be any published in such city or town, or in a written notice posted at each of the public highways in such city or town. Such special regulations shall be posted conspicuously by or under the direction of the Massachusetts highway commission, on sign boards at such points as the board may deem necessary. The cost of such sign boards and the expenses in connection with their erection and maintenance shall be paid out of the appropriation for expenses in connection with the registration of automobiles and motor cycles and the licensing of operators thereof. No ordinance, by-law or regulation now in force in any city or town which regulates the speed at which automobiles or motor cycles may be run upon its public ways shall hereafter have any force or effect. Nothing herein contained shall be construed as affecting the rights of baggies and pedicabs, as authorized by law.

Section 2. Section fourteen of chapter four hundred and seventy-three of the Acts of the year nineteen hundred and three is hereby repealed.

Approved May 4, 1905.

THE SPEED FOR ALL OTHER SECTIONS OF THE TOWN SHALL BE AS PROVIDED IN CHAPTER 473, ACTS OF 1903.

Section 8. No automobile or motor cycle shall be run on any public way or private way laid out under the authority of statute outside the limits of a city or the thickly settled or business part of a town or fire district at a speed exceeding fifteen miles an hour, or within a city or the thickly settled or business part of a town or fire district at a speed exceeding ten miles an hour. Upon approaching a crossing of intersecting ways, also in traversing a crossing or intersection, and in going around a corner or a curve in the highway every person operating an automobile or motor cycle shall run it at a rate of Progressive Street Railways.

The street railways are beginning to realize that people are desirous of learning more about their systems and particularly now as the vacation season approaches, any information regarding the places to be reached by the trolley is of interest.

Many of them are showing evidences of following in the trail blazed by the steam railroads and the successful merchants, in the more frequent use of different forms of publicity, advising, as does the progressive storekeeper, the people of "wares" they have to offer.

But it is the Boston & Northern and Old Colony street railways' passenger department, through its agent, B. H. Derrah, who have made the most radical departure from old time conservatism.

The latest evidence of the enterprise he is infusing into the management of street railways which he represents appeared on our streets lately. A model car of the two companies arrived in town lately, bearing on either side a great poster which reads: "Boston & Northern and Old Colony Street Railways' Advertising Car."

The car is heavily laden with attractive and interesting literature which gives all sorts of valuable information such as rates of fare, running time, and brief descriptions of the seashore resorts, places of historic interest and delightful rural scenery to be reached over the companies' 630 miles of track.

Stops were made at the different transfer stations all over town and a liberal supply of folders, etc., left for gratuitous distribution.

Leaving here the advertising car was run to other towns until the entire system was covered and the edition of over half a million booklets placed in the hands of the people. The Boston & Northern and the Old Colony street railways are deserving of much commendation for their progressive methods.

EDUCATIONAL

Progress of Batavia Idea.

Commenting on the fact that the Batavia idea now has been completely and formally adopted by the public schools of more than 100 important cities in ten of the leading states within three years, Editor Winship of the Journal of Education says that no such record has ever been made by any similar movement. What, then, is this Batavia idea? It is a system of public school education inaugurated six years ago by Superintendent John Kennedy of the Batavia (N. Y.) schools. As defined by Mr. Kennedy himself in a recent address published in the Batavia Times, this system "consists in supplying to the slow or backward children the individual attention that will bring them forward to the class line instead of leaving them to be submerged and lost after inflicting great injury upon those who survived." Superintendent Kennedy had discovered that unrecited class teaching works widespread disaster. His new system does not abolish class teaching, but frees it and renders it operative. Besides the regular class teacher another teacher is assigned to give personal attention to the backward or bashful ones. This teacher takes the troubled ones in hand, sits by their side, warms them with sympathy and encourages them with suggestion that awakens confidence and fills them with hope. In answer to the question whether this two-teacher system does not increase the expenses, Superintendent Kennedy replies that, on the contrary, it reduces expenses. He says there are actually less teachers in Batavia than there would have been if his system had not been adopted. With a team of teachers more than two sets of children can be assembled and the class work goes smoothly on without drag. Mr. Kennedy regards the sectioning as systematized dishonesty and the room for laggards as the most objectionable form of segregation because it is a quasi penal institution. As to the objection that the weaker children will only become more dependent Mr. Kennedy says that the individual teacher leads the children to help themselves. This system humanizes organization and saves the schools from becoming mere machines. Truancy is disappearing at Batavia.

John Kennedy.

The board of trustees at Bethlehem, Pa., have chosen Henry S. Drinker of Haverford, Pa., general solicitor of the Lehigh Valley railroad, to be president of the university, succeeding the late Dr. Thomas M. Drown.

Fewer Professional Women.
President Schurman in his address at the Cornell university commencement said he believed the growing social conservatism was reflected in the fact that the total attendance of students is constantly and largely increasing at Cornell, while the number of women there is steadily declining. He thought that it indicated that the movement of women into professional fields had passed its flood tide.

Roosevelt to College Men.
President Roosevelt attended the commencement exercises of Clarke university at Worcester, Mass., June 21, and was the guest at Williams college commencement next day. At the latter place he received the degree of doctor of laws. In his address at Williams the president discussed public questions and said he desired the assistance of all the colleges and college men in the country in working out the government's problems. He asked that the navy be built up and kept up as a guarantee of peace and of the Monroe doctrine as well as for the defense of the Panama canal. The most compact statement of his idea was: "Keep on building and maintaining at the highest point of efficiency the United States navy or quit trying to be a big nation. Do one or the other." The president also emphasized his well known views of federal supervision of great corporations.

At North Adams he said that the sort of kindness of parents which would keep their children from hard work or from knowing how to do the work of the household was a curse.

More New York Playgrounds.
The New York city board of aldermen, after having twice defeated the plan, voted unanimously June 20 to appropriate $1,000,000 for playgrounds on the congested east side and $3,000,000 for athletic fields for the high schools. The playgrounds will be small but numerous, and there will be an athletic field for each of the four boroughs.

COMMERCIAL

Equitable Frauds Laid Bare.
The long expected report of State Superintendent of Insurance Hendricks on the conduct and status of the Equitable Life Assurance society was made public June 21. The official abuses and grafts laid bare by this drastic investigator has caused the financial world to fairly gasp for breath. Mr. Hendricks goes so far as to say that the only adequate remedy is to eliminate stock control, even though guarded, as proposed in the Ryan trust, and bring about complete mutualization. The present evils are traced back to the founder of the society, Henry B. Hyde, for inaugurating the system of using the society's money for the selfish ends of the officers, especially in renting building space at a nominal rate to safe deposit companies in which they were interested. The various crooked transactions with special organized trust companies is described, and how J. H. Hyde and his friends took stock of the increased capital allotted to the society. Mr. Hendricks says that the officers and directors who profited by these various transactions should be compelled to make restitution, and the attorney general was expected to bring suits to compel them to disgorge. He tells how the young vice president, J. H. Hyde, exacted inordinate salaries for his friends and himself, and used his stock control to justify various extravagances.

Forgeries Close Trust Company.

Owing to the forgeries of Benjamin H. Gaskill, the City Trust, Safe Deposit and Surety company of Philadelphia closed its doors June 21 and went into the hands of a receiver. An excited crowd of depositors gathered about the doors, and the police had to be summoned to maintain order.

Hyde and Alexander Out.

Paul Morton, the new chairman of the board of directors of the Equitable Life Assurance society, announced June 20 that he had accepted the resignations of President Alexander and Vice President Hyde. This action came suddenly, after a rigid investigation of the society's affairs had been begun by Mr. Morton's own accountants.

Lawson Says Rogers Cheated.

In the July Everybody's Thomas W. Lawson tells how the National City bank was used to decoy Amalgamated investors and how H. H. Rogers cheated him out of $4,000,000 of his share of the copper deal profits. Mr. Lawson calls on the policy holders of the New York, Mutual and Equitable Life to take concerted action under his leadership for their protection. He urges them to have nothing to do with any committee and says that his plan has for its aim the preservation of the face value of all policies, the reduction of future premium payments and the restitution of millions looted from the three great companies.

INDUSTRIAL

Eighteen Hour Train Abandoned.

Moved by the disastrous derailment of the eastbound Twentieth Century Limited at Mentor, O., June 21, on the Lake Shore, the New York Central management abandoned the eighteen hour service between Chicago and New York, the old twenty hour schedule being restored. The new service had been in operation with apparent success since June 18. In a statement to the public President Newman of the Central said that while the accident was not due to speed of the train he thought it advisable to restore the twenty hour schedule. He expressed the opinion that most modern trains are running too fast. The Pennsylvania railroad continues its eighteen hour trains.

Motor to Rock Cradle.

A Scottish electrical company has begun to make a specialty of supplying small quantities of power to workingmen's cottages in order to revive cottage industries. It is found that the same motor which runs the sewing machine can be geared to rock the cradle or do other forms of household work.

Highest Building in the World.

Announcement was made at New York that the Metropolitan Life Insurance company had planned to erect a tower-like structure on the part of its square at Twenty-fourth street and Madison avenue which is still occupied by Dr. Parkhurst's church. This section of the great office building is expected to be the tallest structure in the world. The plans call for an edifice 75 feet square and 500 feet high. It is certain that the building will exceed any tower or spire in the world. The Washington monument is 555 feet high, the Philadelphia city hall 537, the Cologne cathedral 512 and the Park Row building, the tallest business structure, is 380.

RELIGIOUS

Italian Catholics to Vote.

Pope Pius has issued an encyclical permitting and advising Catholics in Italy to take part in future parliamentary elections, thus reversing the policy maintained by Pius IX. and Leo XIII. ever since the Italian monarchy took possession of the Eternal City.

Y. M. C. A. Naval Training.

The Young Men's Christian association of New York has a new gift in the shape of a schooner which will be used as a training school for members who wish to learn to be sailors. The vessel will accommodate about thirty pupils, who will be taken on various coastwise voyages.

Felix Adler Against Divorce.

The Literary Digest's summary of the recently published book entitled "Marriage and Divorce," by Dr. Felix Adler, head of the Ethical Culture society in New York, shows that the position of this radical orthodox thinker is more uncompromising against divorce than that of the orthodox Christian churches. He says that "one can no more divorce his spouse than he can divorce his child." He thinks that the usual reasons in favor of divorce rest upon the misconception of the purpose of marriage. His conception is the promotion of the spiritual life of the world and the conferring of benefits of moral growth one upon the other. He admits the wisdom of separation in case of moral incompatibility, but not divorce. He does not even accept adultery as ground for divorce, although it may justify separation. The right to remarry he would not grant to the guilty because of inability to fulfill the marriage relation. To the innocent it seems unnecessary to grant remarriage, because he cannot understand how a person of fine feelings who has been dishonored through no fault of his or hers should wish to turn in a new direction. As to duty he does not see how one can be discharged from it. Though the pledge of honor has been violated by one side, that does not annul it for the other. Dr. Adler does not, however, sympathize with the orthodox idea that the marriage bond is permanent because God is a party to it.

SCIENTIFIC

A New Physiological Theory.

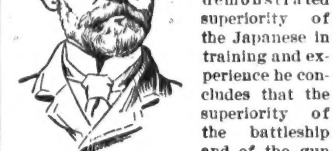

Professor Starling, lecturing for the London (England) College of Physicians on June 22, expressed the belief, as a result of recent discoveries, that each organ of the body produces a chemical substance which excites the next organ into action. He calls these substances hormones, of which an example is adrenalin, which is already isolated. The fact that when disease affects one organ general incapacity results is thought to confirm Starling's theory. He regards it as the task of physiological chemistry to discover the hormone of each organ, how it is produced and how it acts. He thinks this would rationalize the treatment of disease.

Cultivating California Rubber.

Luther Burbank, the plant wizard, has consented to experiment with the cultivation of rubber plants at his Santa Rosa (Cal.) farm. Rubber seeds sent to him from Colorado are coming up nicely, and rubber plants of a new variety have been sent to him from South America.

Supremacy of the Battleship.

Captain A. T. Mahan, the foremost American naval expert, has written for Collier's the lesson of the recent battle of the Sea of Japan. After allowing for the demonstrated superiority of the Japanese in training and experience he concludes that the superiority of the battleship and of the gun purposes of naval warfare has not been shaken. The inefficiency of the torpedo boat destroyers was shown when the already injured battleships were able to repel the combined attack of the whole Japanese flotilla. Captain Mahan does not think it probable that the submarine was employed in this battle.

Artificial Life Through Radium.

The London Chronicle says that after six years' experiments at Cambridge Professor J. B. Burke has demonstrated the possibility of spontaneous generation of life by means of radium and sterilized bouillon placed together in a test tube. Professor Burke is said to have obtained many cultures having the appearance of vitality, such as growth and subdivision.

MISCELLANEOUS

Glidden's Auto Globe Trot.

Charles J. Glidden, the Boston automobile enthusiast, has just returned to America from a trip around the world in his twenty-four horsepower automobile. He and his party left Boston July 12 last year on the association run to the world's fair. The car was shipped back to Chicago, and thence they started west by way of Minneapolis, traveling with flanged wheels on the tracks of the " Soo" and Canadian Pacific railroads to Vancouver. There they shipped to Honolulu and toured the Hawaiian Islands. In the Fiji Islands they had the distinction of bringing the first steam vehicle of any kind. In New Zealand the auto covered a distance of 1,145 miles along the most southerly road in the world. In Australia the Glidden party went 1,724 miles and found bad roads. The natives of Fiji called the auto "the father of all devils," "boat on the road" and "the carriage of lightning."

Oarsman Barred For Cribbing.

Cornelius E. Daly, a senior member of the Yale crew, has been barred by the faculty from representing the university, having been found guilty of cribbing at examinations.

What Lady Managers Saved.

The audit of the board of lady managers in the St. Louis fair shows a balance of $26,667 in the treasury above all expenses. This amount will be returned to the exposition company. They had $100,000 to spend out of the loan granted by the government.

A $2,500,000 G. A. R. Hall.

Upon the recommendation of H. C. Frick, who has agreed to contribute $1,000,000, the leaders of the Grand Army of the Republic are planning to erect a $2,500,000 memorial hall at Pittsburgh.

Accidents.

The eastbound Twentieth Century Limited on the Lake Shore railroad while going at the rate of fifty or sixty miles an hour was derailed near Mentor, O., June 21, by an open switch, causing the death of nineteen persons and the injury of many others. The forward part of the train was destroyed by fire. It was believed that the switch was opened by a wrecker.

Twenty-three persons were killed and many more were injured in a head-on collision on the Western Maryland railroad June 17.

IN STRICT CONFIDENCE.

Women Obtain Mrs. Pinkham's Advice and Help.

She Has Guided Thousands to Health.—How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Mrs. Fred Seydel.

It is a great satisfaction for a woman to feel that she can write to another telling her the most private and confidential details about her illness, and know that her letter will be seen by a woman only, a woman full of sympathy for her sick sisters, and above all, a woman who has had more experience in treating female ills than any living person.

Over one hundred thousand cases of female diseases come before Mrs. Pinkham every year, some personally, others by mail, and this has been going on for twenty years, day after day. Surely women are wise in seeking advice from a woman of such experience, especially when it is absolutely free.

Mrs. Pinkham never violates the confidence of women, and every testimonial letter published is done so with the written consent or request of the writer, in order that other sick women may be benefited as they have been.

Mrs. Fred Seydel, of 412 North 54th Street, West Philadelphia, Pa., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"Over a year ago I wrote you a letter asking advice, as I had female ills and could not carry a child to maturity. I received your kind letter of instructions and followed your advice. I am not only a well woman in consequence, but have a beautiful baby girl. I wish every suffering woman in the land would write you for advice, as you have done so much for me."

Just as surely as Mrs. Seydel was cured, will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure every woman suffering from any form of female ills.

No other medicine in all the world has such a record of cures of female troubles as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Therefore no prudent woman will accept any substitute which a druggist may offer.

If you are sick, write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice. It is free and always helpful.

RESOLUTIONS AT THE ARCANUM CONFERENCE.

BOSTON, June 29.—A general meeting of committees selected by subordinate councils of the Royal Arcanum to act regarding the raise of assessment rates was held last evening in Chipman hall, Tremont Temple.

The interest in the meeting was demonstrated by the attendance, many coming from the western part of the state and others from way down the cape. Of the 170 councils in this state, 108 were represented by 285 delegates. These represented at the meeting nearly 18,000 members.

The meeting was called to order by S. W. Reynolds of Elm council, who with C. M. Day formulated the plan of concerted action by the councils.

On motion, permanent organization was made with Mr. Reynolds as chairman, C. M. Day secretary and J. J. Smullen treasurer.

One of the first motions was to elect a committee to investigate and report at a later meeting some definite plan for the general committee to adopt.

This motion was lost and then after some discussion the following resolutions, presented by John P. Leahy, were adopted:

"Whereas, the Royal Arcanum is accustomed to act in important matters in a regular and legal manner, and it appears to be necessary at the present time to have a meeting of the grand council of Massachusetts at once.

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that the grand council should be called at once, and we request that said grand council take immediate measures to have a meeting of the supreme council called and

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that the recent action of the supreme council should be immediately rescinded by said supreme council, and due consideration and time should be given to the primary question of the adjustment of rates, and

"Resolved, That we believe that the members of the Royal Arcanum, will be content, in the meantime, to allow the supreme council to (a) draw upon the emergency fund for any deficiencies in claims which may occur, or (b) to make extra assessments to meet the necessities of the Royal Arcanum require it."

The subordinate councils of Massachusetts will be asked to adopt these resolutions, and further to instruct their representatives to the grand council, July 20, to vote for their adoption.

The representatives to the grand council will also be instructed to require the grand council to send a copy of the resolutions to every other grand council.

The meeting was earnest and enthusiastic. While the supreme council's action was criticised by many, no personalities were indulged in.

Nearly every delegation present came to the meeting with full power to act for the individual councils. Those councils that were not represented will hold delegate meetings within the next few days, and then it is expected that the entire state will be represented by a joint committee.

The first of its meetings will be that of Paladium council of Everett Friday evening.

It is now expected that the subordinate and grand councils of all jurisdictions will follow the lines laid down by Massachusetts, and that the supreme council will be induced to reconsider its action at Atlantic City last month. The methods followed by the Massachusetts councils is in strict compliance with the laws of the order.

Merritt S. Foye, past grand regent and representative to the supreme council, emphatically denied at the meeting that he had been in consultation with the protesting committee, as the committee that met last evening has been called, and that the new rates were originated by him. Mr. Foye while a delegate to the supreme council meeting, was not consulted regarding new rates, and was one of the three Massachusetts representatives that voted against their adoption.

MODERN MIRACLES.

There are three things I have never yet been able to clearly understand. The first is how a train keeps on the rails; the second how a well-staircase endures so long without perpetually collapsing; and the third, which is the most difficult to comprehend of any, how a coachman manages to keep his hat on.

In the stormiest weather—when most hats are taking flight—when it is blowing fiercely and raining vindictively, you may see a coachman driving a pair of spirited horses and both hands so occupied that they could not touch the brim of his top, and yet he never loses it.

How is this? Does he use some adhesive composition to make it fast to his head, has he an invisible string fastened under his chin, has he some extraordinary method of developing his occipital frontals so as to render it equal to the occasion, or does he follow the example of the fair sex and run a hat pin through his back hair? I am sure I cannot tell how this may be. All I know is that in the midst of a blinding deluge and a terrific hurricane you will find his hat securely planted on the top of his head as if it grew there.—London Graphic.

WELL KNOWN LADY DEAD.

Mrs. Hannah Davis Remick, widow of John Remick and mother of Capt. George H. Remick of Engine 5 and Patrolman Frank P. Remick of South Lawrence, passed away Saturday evening at 8.23 o'clock at the home, 64 Shattuck street. Death came as the result of a shock from which the deceased never recovered. She gradually failed though all was done that loving hearts and willing hands could do.

The deceased had been a resident of this city for 43 years. She was a member of the Parker Street M. E. church for many years and attended service at that church up to the time she was unable to leave her home.

Both her parents came of good old New England stock and many of her ancestors fought in the war for independence. She was born Brackett, and would have reached her 84th birthday on August 27th of this year, having been born in Merrimack in 1821. Her marriage took place July 15th, 1841, in Plaistow, N. H. She leaves nine children, 24 grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren. The children are the Misses Hannah J. Harriet S., and Ida H. at home; James George of Danville, N. H.; Andrew J. Remick of Haverhill; Mrs. C. W. Stebbins of Peru street; Mrs. Eliza Arthur of 15 Saratoga street and the two sons first mentioned.

For short periods she lived in Danville and Kingston, N. H., moving with her parents from Merrimack when quite young. Her husband was a carpenter by trade and died in 1880.

The funeral was held from the late home 64 Shattuck street at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon. The Rev. J. P. West, pastor of the Parker Street M. E. church officiated. Relatives were in attendance from Derry, Kingston, Sandown and Danville, N. H., Lynn, Haverhill and North Andover. The services were also attended by many of the neighbors of the family which is among the best known in South Lawrence.

The casket was surrounded by a number of very beautiful floral tributes which spoke of the love borne the deceased by those who knew her best.

The remains were enclosed in a fine black broadcloth casket, silver trimmed. The plate was inscribed:

MRS. HANNAH DAVIS REMICK.

Died June 24, 1905.

Age 83 years, 10 months.

The bearers were the four sons of the deceased. Burial was made in the family lot in Bellevue.

CLASS ODE.

Our happy four years' course is run,
And, moving at our eager touch,
Wide stands the Open Door.

Full short these years have seemed to us
As onward swift they rolled;
But each was crowned with Wisdom's gift,
More precious far than gold.

And in the years of after life
Whatever may befall,
Be this our precious talisman—
"Tis Labor Conquers All."

ADDRESS TO THE GRADUATES.

In his address to the grammar school graduates Principal A. E. Stearns of Phillips Andover academy said in part:

"All progress is the result of obedience to law. The difference between the so-called civilization of ancient days and the progressive civilization of today may be found in the right here. Occasionally this truth was recognized by the ancient, but just so soon as material results appeared men forgot the real causes of these results and retrogression, and then calamity followed. The world is governed by law. Wherever we turn, whether it be in the material world of nature, the intellectual life of man, the physical life of the race, the moral life of the individual, or the combined life of the individual which we call society, we are confronted with law. Disregard these laws and inevitable penalties follow. Obey them and at once we place ourselves on the side of true development and progress. We speak of discoveries and inventions as though these were the products of our individual train. In a sense they are. Yet a discovery denotes merely the laying of the new law, or of some fact dependent upon law, and an invention is but the application of universal laws to suit our immediate end.

"Education has two great ends; the training of our minds; and the imparting of information which shall make it more possible for us to know and make use of universal laws. In the earlier stages of our education the first end I have mentioned chiefly concerns us. Many of you no doubt have asked yourselves again and again the question 'Of what use to me are Arithmetic and Algebra, Grammar and History?' To all of you these and other subjects will prove at times in themselves alone absolute necessities, but above all visible value lies their splendid worth as trainers of the mind, teaching you to develop and use your intellect, enabling you to discover and apply the talents which each one of you possesses, and which it is your duty to employ in their largest degree of usefulness.

"Everyone of you looks forward, I believe, to a life of usefulness, to success. How will you attain it? This is the serious question which should concern each of you. I do not propose to attempt to say just how each one of you may best attain that particular success for which you individually are best fitted; but what I do want to emphasize is this: That success in either of these you look at it from a material or moral standpoint, whether it lie in physical excellence, intellectual greatness, or moral strength, is to be the result of obedience of law. Don't fool yourself into believing that success is the result of chance or luck. There is no place for the word 'luck' in the vocabulary of a sane and earnest boy or girl. Luck may occasionally improve or lessen your chances of success, but it can never be the controlling force. Many a man has thrown away his opportunities in life by waiting for luck to come his way. Many a man has attained the greatest success in life because he has had to fight against so-called ill-luck.

"None of us knows in our early years what life has in store for us, or even for what we are best fitted. Yet every one of us from the day of our birth has a position to fill which no one else can fill and which we can enlarge if we will. Life calls to us to live in our proper place, but live so fully, so largely, that if we are capable of usefulness we shall extend the borders of our little sphere, and shall of ourselves make that place a larger place. To do our daily task, however small that task may be, uncomplainingly, faithfully, this is our duty. To learn each day's lesson assigned us with patience and to care, this is our opportunity for growth. To seek to do more than is actually required of us, to seek to learn more than our mere assigned lesson, this is that truly develops our power and fits us for something greater than our routine work. When ever a great crisis comes men and women are always found equal to meet it. And generally they are found to be those of whom the world has not before heard. But when their record has been laid bare we have found that they have been faithful in the little things; that the habits of mind and the actions that have made them great are none other than those same habits of mind and those same actions which day after day and month after month they have employed in doing the smaller tasks and the less considered work. They have enlarged and developed their lives and their little spheres of action until they have been carried in spite of themselves to the highest success.

"This is your privilege and mine. Make great every simple task that is given you. Never despise your lot, for you can raise it above the ordinary if you will. Remember that success is not the gift of chance but the result of obedience to law. Education enables you to train your minds that you may be wise to understand, to obey, and thus to render your fullest service to mankind."

WAS A CLASSMATE OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

George Webster Hall of 3 Logan street, of the firm of D. S. Hall and Son of this city was a member of the class of '80 at Harvard of which President Theodore Roosevelt was a member. He remembers the President quite well as a college man.

Gaston who was also a member of the class was the toastmaster. Mr. Hall describes the dinner as being like a big family gathering. There were speeches by the President and other prominent members of the class.

Tuesday the class visited the university and lunched at the Watertown Country club house. In the afternoon they were tendered a reception by the ladies at the Somerset club on Beacon street.

Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Hall attended the reception tendered by Professor and Mrs. A. B. Hart to the members and their wives. Professor Hart, of Harvard '80, is at the head of the history department at the university and the author of several of the leading text books in American history.

But a few Lawrence young were members of the class of 1880. Besides Mr. Hall there were Fred Jordan, a brother of Patrolman William P. Jordan, in the West, and Thaddeus Kennebec, then of Tewksbury, but a graduate of the local schools. He is now a prominent New York lawyer.

One of the new blues is called Sax and is very attractive, being softer than the old blues and less metallic in color. It is one of the few light blues which tone well with navy blue.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL CLASSES COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

In the city hall Tuesday the graduation exercises of the grammar schools were held commencing at 2 o'clock. In the march the pupils plainly showed the many days of training they had received. They marched to their seats to the strains of the Columbian orchestra with an earnestness of body that is becoming.

Supt. of Schools Bernard M. Sheridan conducted the exercises. He introduced Principal Alfred E. Stearns of Phillips Andover academy as the speaker of the afternoon.

Principal Stearns impressed upon the minds of his youthful audience the supreme value of integrity both in purpose and in manner. He spoke of those simple truths which are so essential to success and explained the great value of education.

The following was the program of the exercises: the music by a chorus of graduates, assisted by E. B. Choate, pianist, and the Columbian orchestra: March, Chorus, "God of All Creation," Tufts Chorus, "Happy and Light of Heart," Balfie

The hall was prettily decorated with palms and potted plants, banded upon stage and placed about the hall. The school flag was draped above the entrance and red and white flags bearing the letters "J. H. S." and "05" were arranged about the walls with striking effect. With wicker easy chairs, parlor lamps and screens, inviting cozy corners were arranged upon the stage, and at the corner of the hall.

The order of dances was a fine one. At intermission Caterer Fred Lane served ice cream and cake and fruit punch helped to quench the thirst of the dancers during the evening.
